SEE FRESH DEMANDS CAR LICENSE CUTS

Demands for lower motor car licenses in Alherta aro scheduled to be voiced at meetings of branchos of tho A.M.A. to be held this month and early in December.

Annual reports aro expected to show that tho A.M.A. now has a total membership in excess of 21,000 making it one of tho strongest organizations in tho province. This year's membership is far ahead of 1945.

The A.M.A. has continued to press for a reduction in car licenses and also that all motor revenues sheuld be specifically devoted to highway maintenance and construction purposes.

Had millions of dollars collected from motorists by various provincal goverumenta been spent exclusively on highways, Alberta now would havo a highway system that would challenge comparison with any provinee or state at the present time.

In the U.S., more states are following the trend to ban by legislation the diveraion of road funds to other than highway purposes.

TWO PROVINCES STUDY ALASKA ROAD LINKS

Maintenanee of highways connecting with the Alaska highway is a matter of negotiation betweou tho British Columbia and Alberta governments, according to the views held by Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works for the coast proviace.

The minister told a representative of the Alberta Motor Association when in Edmonton recently that this was the position in regard to improving the link between the Alberta boundary and Dawson creek. The routo of a new link in this section will be surveyed.

Strong demands have hoen made by the A.M.A and other organizations in the provance for the improvment of roads linking with the Alaska highway. This need was expressed in a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the Edmonton branch of the A.M.A.

With a tourist tide expected next year, various bodies are stressing the need of leaving nothing undone that will ensuro good all-weather road connections with the Alaska highway.

The switch in the truck was on and the gas tank was empty. No inquest was deemed neccesary. He was employed by Bert Nilsson. Tho Nilsson residence is not occupied ot tho time.

Confidence In The U.N.O.

THE UNITED NATIONS' ORGANIZATION, which was formed when the nations concerned were firmly united in the task of winning the war, has since that time faced many difficult situations and successfully averted any acute crisis in international affairs. Because of the unavoidable association in the minds of the public between the United Nations' Organization and the League of Nations, there have been many people who have, from the beginning, had little confidence that the U.N.O. would fare any better than did the earlier attempt to unite the whole world in the interests of permanent peace and security. These people could be reminded, however, that nations, as well as individuals, may learn from experience and that the U.N.O., will undoubtedly be a more solid structure, because of the knowledge gained from the workings of the League of Nations.

• • • • •

The Need For More Patience

Mr. Sumner Welles, a former United States Under-Secretary of State, recently gave three lectures in Canada under the auspices of the J. W. Dafoe Foundation. The subject of these addresses, one of which was made in Winnipeg, was "The United Nations in the World of the Future", and in them Mr. Welles asked that people be patient in their attitude towards the U.N.O. He pointed out that although the organization is still in the early stages of its development, it has been able to avert international crisis during the extremely difficult period which followed directly after the war. If, he argued, it can accomplish this successfully, why should we not expect that it would preserve peace and restraint among nations even more successfully in the future?

An Effort To Prevent War

The opinion of Mr. Welles and of many other outstanding students of international relations today is that there is need for realism in facing the existing problems, and for confidence in the future. The United Nations' Organization is one concrete effort on the part of people from many lands to find a solution to their difficulties and to avert future wars. Those who will not face the fact that there are grave problems which must be worked out, and others, who look upon the United Nations' Organization as merely an idealistic attempt at co-operation, destined for failure, are both working against their own interests and against our greatest hope for security in the future. "Had it not been for the existence of the United Nations during the post-war period," Mr. Welles said, "I am persuaded that there would be little, if any, hope today of saving humanity from world anarchy. "If a statesman of Mr. Welles' experience and ability believes this, surely the U.N.O. does merit at least the reconsideration of those who now place little faith in its effectiveness. Confidence, and a realistic attitude on the part of everyone toward the major problems of the times, might go far in improving conditions now and in the future.

Should Be Dignified

Steps Being Taken To Make Attaining Citizenship An Impressive Ceremony

The Family Herald and Weekly Star says: Speaking at Granby, Que., a short time ago, the Hon. Paul Martin, Secretary of State, said that a Canadian citizenship week would be observed throughout Canada from Jan. 5 to 11 next year.

This may not convey much to many Canadians, but it will mean a great deal to others. Mr. Martin is the first Secretary of State to appreciate the fact that our present system of admitting aliens to the honor of Canadian citizenship usually lacks much in dignity and impressiveness.

Many readers, born elsewhere than in Canada, have become Canadian citizens by the honorable process of naturalization. In our experience, few of them can look back to the moment when they became "Canadians" with any sense that their neighbors and their community realized the fine and important step being taken as they themselves probably realized it in their own hearts.

Too often the ceremony—if there was any ceremony, has been skimpy, shabby, hurried, and without dignity. It is Mr. Martin's wise intention to change this. He is taking steps to provide a more impressive ceremony for this all-important change in the life of a new Canadian. He wants to give it the kind of solemnity, dignity and beauty which pertains to a church wedding, and prevent it from being the hurried, gabbled, dingy process so often seen in a marriage before the registrar.

In this endeavor, every good Canadian should help. Canadian citizenship is a proud thing. It is an honor, a privilege, and it entails many duties as well as rights. Nothing should be left undone to welcome these new Canadians to their new privileges and duties in a manner which suits the importance of the occasion, both from the point of view of the new citizen, and of the community into which he is being inducted.

Mr. Martin's inauguration and administration may do much towards this end. But it is the community itself, the neighbors, the municipal officials and the local organizations, which can really make the birthday of a new Canadian something to be remembered all his life, and a contribution to the self-respecting patriotism of all Canadians, new and old.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

WAR TERRORS MILD COMPARED TO DEER-HUNTING

BURLINGTON, Vt.—Armand Premo, 20-year-old war veteran, is convinced that the terrors of war are mild compared to deer-hunting.

Premo brought home a 250-pound, eight-point deer from the woods in Huntington.

But only after:

He knocked it down with shot from a .22 calibre rifle, threw away his gun and mounted the deer, rode it bareback for 65 feet as it bucked wildly, and slashed it 15 times with a hunting knife before the buck dropped in its tracks.

The bullet wound was superficial.

Premo grinned and said:

"I guess I was a little excited."

Farm Wife Worth More Than City Girl

Editor Of Farm Journal Gives Her Reasons

CHICAGO.—A farm wife is worth more to her husband than a glamorized city housewife, a woman editor said.

A farmer's wife is worth $69,000 to her husband during her lifetime. A city wife is worth much, much less—how much less, the editor didn't say.

Gertrude Dieken, editor of the Farmer's Wife Section of Farm Journal, Philadelphia, made the estimate.

She said economists had arrived at $69,000 after a 13-week study of farm wives and their work. Nobody has even bothered to compute a city housewife's value to her spouse, in monetary terms.

"A city wife is worth a lot less," Miss Dieken said.

"A farmer and his wife are in partnership," she said. "They are together most of the time and they work together all day long.

"But in the cities, wives never see their husbands from breakfast to dinner. They don't know what's going on at the office and they don't share in the business." The study showed that a typical dairy farm housewife washed 1,509 pounds of clothes, carried four and three-quarters tons of water and spent 57 hours in her laundry during a 13-week period.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

HIGHER JOYS

Joy is an elation of spirit—of a spirit which trusts in the goodness and truth of its own possessions.—Seneca.

Who bathes in worldly joys, swims in a world of fears.—Phineas Fletcher.

Be faithful over home relations; they lead to higher joys: obey the Golden Rule for human life, and it will spare you much bitterness.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Tranquil pleasures last the longest; we are not fitted to bear long the burden of great joys.—Bovee.

Great joy, especially after a sudden change of circumstances, is apt to be silent, and dwells rather in the heart than on the tongue.—Fielding.

The most profound joy has more of gravity than of gaiety in it.—Montaigne.

The use of postal cards was first suggested in 1865 by the director of the Royal Prussian Post.

Veteran To Bicycle Family 4,000 Miles

To Use Novel Contraption Of Two Machines Welded Together

TAMPA, Fla.—A novel contraption, two bicycles welded together, was being made ready by a Canadian war veteran to transport his wife and three children on a 4,000-mile journey from Tampa to Seattle.

Robert K. Parker, 42, whose lungs were burned when his tank exploded while he was serving with the Canadian Army in France, hopes to make the trip in three months.

While he pedals one bicycle, his wife, Mrs. Emma Parker, 32, formerly a waitress at a Seattle hotel, will ride the other. Two children, Vonnell, their 20-months-old daughter, and the baby boy, Dwight, eight months old, will be carried in a wooden box suspended between the two bicycles. The oldest boy, Dickie, 7, will ride a padded seat in back of the box.

Their suitcases and other belongings will be hung from various parts of the vehicle.

The family came from Seattle to Winter Haven by automobile last month to visit his father, Lawrence P. Parker. Unable to find a place for the five of them in Winter Haven, they tried unsuccessfully to find permanent lodgings in Dade County, where Mr. Parker obtained work in a citrus plant, and in Tampa.

Temporary accommodation was provided at the servicemen's hotel here. Then they ran out of money and sold their car.

Finally Mrs. Parker got the idea of using two bicycles for conveyance back home to Seattle.

Mr. Parker said they planned to leave as soon as he receives his monthly disability pension from the Canadian government.

The Part That Is Out Of Sight

It is common knowledge that the greatest part of an iceberg is beneath the surface of the water, in fact authorities agree that close to 90 percent is under water leaving only 10 percent of the ice showing. In the plant world frequently 50 per cent and often much more of the plant is below the ground. Far too often we think only of the part we see and not enough of the part that is out of sight.

Western Canadian agriculture is controlled largely by the root habits of crop plants. Usually soil structure and fertility are favorable for growth. Sunlight, oxygen and carbon-dioxide are in abundance while water of course is the limiting factor. Soil moisture can be controlled by irrigation but without irrigation our agriculture is dependent on the root habits of plants.

At one time it was generally believed that roots obtained all of their water and food supplies from the upper six inches of soil. We know now that roots not only penetrate to considerable depths but they also absorb both moisture and nutrients from the full depth of penetration. Alfalfa rootshave been traced in different soil types from 15 to 30 feet in depth. Most of our native grasses penetrate well into the subsoil while an individual plant of crested wheat grass has been known to send down roots to a depth of nearly 10 feet.

Some of our crop plants have a taproot, which is a single root with varying degrees of branching. Alfalfa has a tap root. Our grasses (including the cereal crops) have a fibrous root system made up of numerous threadlike branches. Fibrous root systems have a tremendous absorbing area. At Saskatoon it was found that a single three year old crested wheat grass plant with a depth of penetration of about 9 feet had a total length of roots of 364 miles. With such a tremendous mass of roots this plant is very efficient in absorbing water. It is small wonder too that crested wheat grass sod so capably withstands both wind and water erosion.

Not all crop plants have the same root mass to help hold the soil. Brome and slender wheat grass at Saskatoon produced less than half the roots that crested wheat grass produced. Root studies made at Lethbridge showed that two years after plowing crested wheatgrass there were over 8 grams of oven dry roots per cubic foot while there were less than 2 grams following alfalfa brome or slender wheat grass. In the wheat summerfalow rotation there was practically no root fibre.

Plant roots are truly efficient organs. Not only do they absorb moisture and nutrients for the plant under a tremendous range of conditions they also make a wonderful anchorage system for the soil.

BEWARE - - - OF RARE PORK

"And the swine is unclean to you. Of their flesh shall ye not est and their carcass shnll ye not touch."

Such was the admonition given by Moses to the wandering Children of Isrsel more than 2,000 years sgo. Moses undoubtedly had some good reason for formulatiag such a lsw, it being altogether likely that he had noticed that serious illness sometimes followed the consumption of pork. Centuries later Mohsmmed forbado his followers the use of pork as a food.

Thus millions of people who today adhere strictly to the tenets of certain religious beliefs are spsred tho possibility of contracting a disease known as trichinosis. Trichinosis is a disesse which 100 yesrs ago was first recognized as one which resulted from estiag pork which had become infested with a worm-like parasite—Trichinella Spiralis.

For those who do eat pork, it is imperative that they remember that raw or partially cooked pork is dsagerous—that pork aad pork products always should be well cooked.

In the year 1835, Sir James Paget, famous English surgeon, was doing a post-mortem when he noticed that numerous amall lime and calcium-like sweilings in the muscles were taking the edge off his knife. He took out some of these nodules and showed them to Robert Owen of the Royal College of Surgeons. Owen broke open some and examined them through a microscope. He found that inside each shell-like nodule, not as big as a grain of wheat, was a small, coiled up worm, hair-like in size and consistence. He named the worm "Trichina Spiralis" which really means "little hair of a spiral shape."

Today, the medical fraternity eall this parasite "Trichinella Spiralis" which means practically the same thing. It is known that "Trichinella Spiralis" is a very amall worm which ia a parasite of the pig, and which, when eaten alive by a human being (as it may be when uncooked or partially cooked pork ia eaten) becomes a parasite of the human being, and eauses disagreeable and often fatal illness known as trichinosis.

The parasite is a small round worm. The pig is the animal most commonly infected, although rats and bears which eat infected pork may also become infected. The young worm, or larva, is very small and bores through the wall of the pig's bowel and gets into its muscles. In the muscles of the pig these small larvae aurround themselves with a sac which after perhaps a year, becomes calcified and forms the hard small nodules which Sir James Paget noticed in 1835.

Pigs usually get infected in the first place by eating uncooked pig flesh—pork clippings in garbage. Care therefore should be taken to aee thst pigs are not fed on untreated garbage, and that rats are kept away from piggeries, abbatoirs and packing houses.

But since the pig, when he does get infected, haa thousands of these larvae all through his body, it is impossible by means of any praetical method of meat inapection, to safeguard the public absolutely. The public must safeguard itself, and the only way is to make sure that pork or pork products are well cooked before eating.

Remember, rare pork is dangerous!

Build Home On Loot

Portland Couple Face Thirty Theft Charges

PORTLAND, Ore.—A three-room home built with stolen materials was listed today along with household furnishings and extensive wardrobes Sheriff Martin Pratt aald were accumulated in a year by a young woman and her ex-husband charged herc with 30 burglaries.

Sheriff Pratt reported Willism Frankin Leonard, 41, aad his divorced wife, Christina Leonard, readily admitted the thefts after their arrest la the home they built a few months ago.

Most of the stolen building materials had been taken from housing project jobs cn which Leonard worked daytime during the last year. Sheriff's Deptuy Lyle Cocking said the woman would drive a small truck at night to a home where her husband had broken ia and together they would haul away the plunder.

Most of the articles were identified as comiag from Portisad's middle-class suburban homes where the sheriff's officers said a robber who left red candle drippiags hnd operated for many months. Deputy Cocking said candles were la abundsnce in the Leonards' new home aad Sheriff Prstt earlier had reported Leonard sdmitting his trade wss "safe cracking" bemoaniag leaviag his former trnde.

Cabot Received Annual Pension Of $100 For Discovering Newfonndland

When explorer John Cnbot returned to Bristol in August of 1497 he informed Henry VII that he hsd discovered, naturally enough, a new-found-land. For his discovery of 42,734 aquare miles of abundancy Mr. Cabot was paid $50.

But this $50 nnd a later annual pension of $100 to "hymn that discovered ye new isle" was paid out of the coffers of the people of Bristol. Consequently Bristolites had a good deal to say, most of it bad, about this new-found-land. Thus the name Newfoundland came into general usage.

Unless Newfoundland were pronounced as three aeparste words the line would not scan and a pronunciation adopted merely to fit the rhythm would make the whole thing ridiculous.

So today the formal pronunciation of Newfoundland calls for three "connected-separate" words with no speeinl accent on any of them. However, in conversation Newfoundlanders have a tendency to slur the middle syllable and it comes out as NEWf'nLAND.

NEED NO BUTTER FOR FANCY BAKING

Successful Cooking Can Be Made Through Other Fats

The butter ration may be slim, and the grocer may say "no" when begged for shortening, but nevertheless careful housewives still are turning out successful pies and cakes. They're using every kind of fat they can get their hands on as replacement for butter and shortening quantities in recipes.

Experts of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, say clarified pork fat or lard makes excellent pastry or cakes.

The flavor of fat from smoked pork blends well with meat, and therefore can be used to advantage for pastry for meat-pies or sausage rolls. It can also be used in any recipe for spice cookies or gingerbread which contains spices or molasses.

Any clarified fat or dripping may be substituted for shortening measures in all cooking except baking where large amounts of fat are used and a definite texture is desired.

Chicken fat with its bland flavor and soft texture can be used immediately upon being rendered for all types of cooking.

Beef dripping is too hard to use satisfactorily in cooking, but two cups rendered beef fat melted with one cup pork fat or lard and stirred occasionally while cooling to prevent separation gives a soft pliable fat.

Lamb fat is hard with a distinctive flavor. While not satisfactory for use in baked products, it goes well in the preparation of ment dishes. However, if after clarified lamb fat is mixed with a soft fat in the proportion of one part lamb to seven parts soft fat it can be used in baking.

Veal fat is soft and mild flavored, and when rendered is excellent for cooking. Different fats vary in shortening power. To substitute for shortening use: ¾ cup clarified pork fat or lard ¾ cup chicken fat; 1 cup beef dripping.

MY WEEK

by R..J. Deachman

I am very much obliged to the President of the United States. He did me a favor the other day, he enabled me to find out where I was on the 20th September, 1905. Not that it mattered in the least but there was something else to it as you shall presently see.

It happened thisway, the constitution of the United States is strange and complex. It is quite different from ours. So the night after the election I started looking through my books and picked up one entitled "Civil Government In The United States" by John Fiske.

So I started to browse through the book and what do you suppose I found—a receipt for payment for a parlor car ticket. It was well preserved because it had been in the book for years. The date was September 20, 1905. It covered a trip from Calgary to Innisfail and I seemed to have paid 25 cents for it. Stranger still the page at which closed the book had a rather interesting comment, it might have been written yesterday, it will be applicable to tomorrow, perhaps to an inflaite number of tomorrows.

The author was discussing the forms of popular government and he pointed out that the basic democratic form was the town meeting where people met and discussed 'the specific objects for which public money is to be appropriated". Here was his point of view:

"Under this form of government people are not so liable to bewildering delusions as under other forms. I refer especially to the delusion that 'the government' is a sort of mysterious power, possessed of a magic inexhaustible fund of wealth, and able to do all manner of things for the benefit of 'the people'. Some such notion as this, more often implied than expressed, is very common, and it is inexpressibly dear to demagogues. It is the prolific root from which springs that luxuriant crop of humbug upon which political tricksters thrive as pigs fatten upon [illegible] In point of fact no such government armed with a magic fund of its own has ever existed upon the earth. No government has ever used any money for public purposes which it did not first take from its own people."

The book must have been written somewhere in the 80's. Well, well, delusions die slowly. Away back in those distant days, almost 60 years ago, they believed that the nation could be enriched by the squandering of money regardless of the manner in which it was spent. We still believe it. Burke was right, "The march of the human mind is slow." Ah, very, very slow! Nor is it always a forward march. We were not necessarily making progress when we were most proud of ourselves..

WHERE IS THAT AUTO-BUGGY .

There is something else on my mind about Innisfail. Somebody in the town had an autobuggy — think of it back in 1905. It wasn't an auto mobile as we have it today, rather like an ordinary buggy with an engine in I wonded who owned it and what happened to it!

THE TOWN HALL MEETING

I am not certain of the nature of municipal meetings in Western Canada. In the last few years I have been only an out and in visitor, so busy when I was there that I had little time for anything.

In the old days in the Province of Ontario they were extremely lively. I have seen Town Halls at Municipal meetings full then as picture theatres are now. They wanted to know how every dollar had been spent. If a nickle were lost they sent out a search-warrant for it. The same thing happened in the wider field of politics. Public meetings for the discussion of provincial and federal matters brought great crowds. The people knew something of the issues and were quite strong in their convictions.

These days can never be re-claimed, they are gone forever. The average voter now has a different conception of government expenditures. In federal or provincial fields he is often on the side of bountiful spending in the hope that he will get something out of it for himself. Then the tendency is toward larger farms. A man on a fifty acre farm might be interested in his tax bill but the man on the larger farm has [illegible] tasks to consider.

IT IS INEVITABLE

To-day there are other attractions. Distance is no longer a barrier. The average farmer in Ontario can go to the city for a movie if he wants to do so and these very [illegible] over it. Life is broader. There are many diverse interests. We try not to drop [illegible] on the things that matter most. Whether this in the end makes for good or ill I am not prepared to say—all I know is that it is inevitable.

HUMAN FACTS BEHIND THE FIGURES

Merchants, businessmen and people in every sort of enterprise borrow a lot of money from the B of M. One of these was Mr. P. R. B., an expert baker, who, after service with the Forces, wanted to own a small wholesale bakery again. Lacking the ready cash, he came to the B of M, obtained a $500 loan, and is now running a profitable little business.

Thousands of business men—with big enterprises and little ones—use B of M loans to help them in their financing. The dollars they borrow oil the wheels of commerce and industry, facilitate production and create employment.

B of M Personal Loans helped no less than 157,020 people during the past year—people like Mr. A. L. T., who needed money to help him finish constructing his own home. He got three B of M Personal Loans, totalling more than $600, over a period of 18 months, and he has paid them off regularly in monthly instalments. Now his home is in fine shape and the loans are repaid. Interest cost of loans: $32.53.

Over 500 people from every walk of life come to the B of M every business day to borrow for personal needs.

"MY BANK" TO A MILLION CANADIANS B of M Reporting

BANKING is not the mysterious business some people are inclined to think it. In its fundamentals, it is no more complex than any other type of business.

The chief difference is that, instead of dealing in goods, your bank deals in money . . . money which belongs mainly to you and to the many other Canadians who deposit their funds with the bank.

At the B of M, for instance, well over a million people have placed on deposit close to one and three-quarter billion dollars.

This money doesn't stand idle . . . it works to earn its keep.

This is why, as you will see here, some of the dollars left at the B of M are lent to merchants, businessmen and manufacturers to assist them in their operations, while others are used to finance the needs of governments. Some enable farmers to improve their farms, buy machinery and market crops. Many others go out to help citizens in their day-to-day financing — in meeting emergencies and in taking advantage of opportunities.

The sum total of all these transactions makes interesting reading, not so much on account of the figures themselves, but because of the human stories behind them.

At the close of the B of M's business year, it seems a good thing for these dollars to show what they have been doing and for the Bank to report on the transactions which it has undertaken for its customers from coast to coast.

Farmers all across the Dominion use the B of M to finance their needs in buying seed, cattle and machinery—in marketing crops—and in improving their farms generally. This means more prosperous farming communities — and bigger agricultural production to meet the urgent needs of a hungry world.

Typical of these go-ahead farmers is Mr. R. B. L., who wanted to clear and break 50 acres on his farm. The job would cost $325, but his ready cash amounted to only $125. With the aid of a B of M farm improvement loan of $200, he completed the job and has considerably increased the production and profits from his farm.

In municipalities, school districts and governments, the B of M is constantly lending money for undertakings that benefit the whole community.

Take the case of an Ontario town, which—to pay for a new sewage system—was selling debentures amounting to $305,000. The Bank of Montreal bought 44% of the issue, a total of $134,000, which is now being used by the town to complete the undertaking.

Many municipalities use the B of M's facilities to finance community improvements and to handle their financial transactions generally.

If you are a B of M depositor, then it may be your money which assisted Mr. P. R. B. to buy his bakery—which helped Mr. A. L. T. finish constructing his home—which enabled Farmer R. B. L. to make his farm more profitable—and which helped finance the new sewage system for the Ontario town. That working money of yours is part of $1,700,000,000 which well over a million Canadians have deposited at 498 B of M branches from coast to coast. Each one of the 1,531,658 B of M deposit accounts is an expression of trust in Canada's first-established bank, which has been working with Canadians in every walk of life for 129 years.

Predicts Biggest Building Year In History For 1947

OTTAWA.—Cnnada is likely to have the higgest building year in its history in 1947, Reconstruction Minister Howe said in a speech prepared for delivery.

Mr. Howe devoted a major part of his address, broadcast over the trans-Canada network of the CBC in the politicnl free time series, to a discussion of housing problems.

He said that although there now were 30 per cent. more workers in the construction industry than a year sgo the 1946 target of 60,000 houses would be short by 5,000 to 10,000. Responsibility was pinned by the minister on atrikes which interrupted the flow of materials.

"A survey of unfinished dwellings in municipalities of 5,000 population and over shows, as at Sept. 7, 35,000 units incomplete," he reported. "Special efforts are being made by our priorities officer to bring into occupancy those houses which are 50 per cent. or more complete."

He voiced optimism on next year's outlook.

"I have every reason to believe that 1947 will be by far the biggest building year that Cannda has ever experienced. Since war ended the best effort of the government has been directed toward accelerating the production of houses, just as the year 1940 was directed toward accelerating the production of munitions of war.

"Then, as now, there was widespread criticism of the government's failure to produce. I would remind you that after 1940 there was little criticism about the volume of production of war munitions, and I predict that our efforts to accelerate the building of houses will meet with equal success. In saying this I am not minimizing the urgent need for more houses. I am simply trying to emphasize that everything that I know of is being done to meet that need."

Touching on other post-war activities the minister reported that War Assets Ltd. is disposing of surnlus war materials at the rate of $20,000,000 a month with a total return to the Dominion so far of $300,000,000. Renegotiation of war contracts had returned $400,000,000.

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Views Of British Commonwealth Not Regimented Says Vincent Massey

CALGARY.—The Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain, took issue with critics of the British commonwealth when he addressed a joint Canadian club luncheon meeting here on "Canada's place in a troubled world."

Mr. Massey said the British nations were often accused of forming a bloc or "ganging up" on other states.

"Any experience I may have had in international gatherings would lead me to believe that the British Commonwealth should be peculiarly immune from such charge," Mr. Massey said.

He pointed out that British representativea often disagreed among themselves at international conferences. This fact should re-assure the most aensitive nations that there was little danger of a regimented point of view in the British Commonwealth.

"All through the colonial empire, self-government is being extended today," Mr. Massey stated. "That atubborn belief in freedom which carried the British through the war is not a commodity for domestic consumption alone—it ia also an export. She (Britain) remaina n bastion of freedom in a world where freedom is atill at issue."

Everyone in Canada was a beneficlary of battles fought by Britain for freedom, he said.

CANADA'S SHARE

Liquidation Of German External Assets Will Give Dominion About $15,750,000

OTTAWA.—Canada's share in the approximately $450,000,000 worth of German external assets now being liquidated in neutral countries probably will total approximately $15,750,000 government aources estimated.

This will be in addition to the Canadian share in Germany's internal assets. Of the internal assets, the Dominion expects to obtain 10,000 tons of German shipping nnd 1.5 per cent. of Germnn's heavy industries.

A Washington dispatch estimated the liquidation of German assets in neutral countriea probably would yield approximately $450,000,000 for 48 Allied countries.

SEEKS STATEHOOD

WASHINGTON.—The latest unofficial tally of the vote by which Alaskans approved a resolution seeking statehood is 9,565 to 6,820. It was the heaviest voting in the history of Alaska, which has less than 43,000 inhabitants of voting age.

U.S. SOUTH POLAR EXPEDITION PLANNED—Rear-Admiral Richnrd E. Byrd (left), seasoned Antarctic explorer, shown with Vice-Admiral Sherman, will shortly direct a U.S. navy south polar expedition to cold weather test aircraft, ships and other naval equipment. Isolated Antarctic region was chosen to allay Russian worries over operations near Soviet territory and assure secrecy.

Announces The Removal Of Wheat Quotas

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister MacKinnon announced the removal of all quotas on the amount of wheat which prairie farmers may deliver to their country elevators.

This means that farmers may deliver as much wheat as they want to the elevators instead of being restricted to a certain number of bushels per acre, according to their district.

Officials said that up to now approximately 90 per cent. of the crop areas were on the maximum quota of 20 bushels an acre, or were entirely quota-free.

Mr. MacKinnon also announced that during the first 3½ months of the current crop year—up to Nov. 15—producers have marketed the exceptionally high total of 201,000,000 bushels of wheat. At Nov. 15, country elevators held 86,500,000 bushels.

"These deliveries and stocks are very gratifying in view of the export demand which now exists," he said, "but all wheat markcted by producers during the present crop year will be required to meet the urgent export demands for both wheat and flour."

Mr. MacKinnon said the Canadian wheat board had increased delivery quotas this fall as rapidly as available storage space and current transportation would permit.

Officials said the early removal of the quotas this fall resulted from the heavy ahipments of wheat early this year which cleaned the elevators out of much of the 1945-46 crop.

The quota system of wheat deliveries to elevatora is used to avoid congestion and to ensure that farmers at a distance from elevators have aa much chance to deliver their wheat as those whose lands are close to the storage depots.

BIRTH RATE DECLINE

Chief Justice McRuer States Thirty-One Per Cent. Of Homes Childless

TORONTO.—Decrease in the Canadian birthrate in the past 25 years was "an alarming truth," Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario aald to a meeting of the Toronto Centre Presbytery of the United churches. Thirty-one per cent. of all homes were childless and there was a tendency to ridicule lnrge families.

President of the royal commission on Christian marriage and the Christian home, the chief justice preaented the report of that body. He said the Canadian family is fading away to tiny proportiona with 4,318,586 peraons 18 yeara old or under—an average of 1.7 children to each family.

Twenty-three per cent. of familiea in the Dominion had only one child while only 17 per cent. had more than three. The province of Saskatchewan had the greatest family average—3.9 children for each family. Quebec was next with 3.0 children, Ontario third with 2.5 and British Columbia fourth with 2.3.

CANADIAN INDUSTRY

Has Become Third Among Industrial Nations

GRANBY, Que.— Transport Minister Chevrier ssid that reconversion of Canadian industry from war to peace now is three-quarters completed and more than 1,000,000 former members of the forces and war workera have been absorbed into peacetime positions.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Granby chamber of commerce, Mr. Chevrier said Canada now was third among the industrial natlona of the world and had 1,000,000 more people gainfully employed than in 1939.

Last month there were 138,608 jobs available and 135,989 persons aceking employment. "This figure of nplaced persons is well below normal unemployment in times of relatively high levels of employment," aaid Mr. Chevrier. "Even during the penk perlod of the war there were at times as many as 50,000 or more people unemployed."

MANY DESERTERS

LONDON. — Deserters from the British forces still at large total 15,068, War Secretary Bellenger disclosed in the house of commons. Some 13,176 are army men, 1,500 eame from the navy, and 392 from the R.A.F.

TOURIST ATTRACTION

Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary Proves To Be One Of The Greatest

WINDSOR, Ontario.—With the fall (Novemher) migration of waterfowl at its peak at the world famous Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary twenty-five miles from here, the Custom officers and Immigration officers at this port of entry todny snid that "more people coming into Canada ask the wsy to Jack Miner's than sny other place."

All United States snd Canada has copied his bird sanctusry idea for conservation of bird life which is a nntional asset to this country. Although the late Jnck Miner pssaed on two years ngo, it is good to know thnt his sons are carrying on the work more energetically than ever.

Before Jack Miner died he said "What made my bird sanctuary such a success was because I took God in partnership with me." He atarted to put verses of scripture en his bird bands snd in this way he secured the co-operation of The Jesuit Priest and Anglican missionaries in Hudson and James Bny, who acted as his agents in collecting them from the Indians and Eskimos. The verse of scripture on the band gave him the wholehearted co-operntion of every church in North America, the banding of birds gave him the support of every sportaman, and thus the place has become so popular in attracting tourists from all over the world.

POPULATION UP

CHRISTMAS SEALS

BY E. L. ROSS, M.D.

Medical Director, Sanatorium Board of Manitoba

MOST people associate the colorful Christmas Seal with the campaign against tuberculosis but may not know, even though they buy them, the nature and extent of the remarkable work they make possible.

The money raised from the Christmas Seal sale last year paid for the x-raying of 100,000 people in Manitoba. Besides these x-ray surveys of whole communities and municipalities, Christmas Seals provide trnveling clinics in thirty centres throughout the Province. They also provide rehabilitation service to patients in our sanatoria consisting of vocational guidance, training and assistance in finding employment.

Tuberculosis is an unnecessary disease for it is preventable and curable. The only meana of irradication is prevention which is bnaed on the discovery of sources of infection at an early stnge before germs can be spread to others. Treatment begun early results in almost 100% cures. In spite of this knowledge tuberculosis still causes more deaths between the ages of fifteen and forty-five than any other disease.

Tuberculosis in its real early stages does not cause cough, tiredness, loss of weight nor make people feel sick so to find those with the disease before it has reached the aympton stage, before they become sick and before the germ haa been passed on to someone else in the family or community, people who are apparently well have to be x-rayed. The 'all-seeing eye' of the x-ray is the only means of discovering tuberculosis at this early stage.

Within the last few yenra new x-ray equipment thnt takes pictures on miniature films has made it possible financially to x-ray the whole population and it is the objective of the Sanatorium Board to complete the x-raying of everyone in the Province within the next two years. To intensify this preventive service another complete mobile x-ray unit is needed and I therefore appeal to all citizens to support generously the sale of Christmas Seals being conducted under the auspicea of the Sanatorium Board of Manitoba for the support of travelling clinics, mass x-ray surveys and the rehahilitation of tuberculous patients. Every case of tuberculosis discovered early prevents the infecting of an untold number of othera.

Your buying of Christmas Seals is a practical way to decorate your Christmas mail and parcels and at the aame time they carry a message of health and are a worthwhile investment in protecting your home from tuberculosis.

MAGIC EYE 'SEES' LUNG

With the new improved equipment, X-ray pictures of the lung require only a few aeconds and can be taken with "elothes on". Group X-ray programa, to find unknown caaea of tuberculoais while the diaeasa is still in its early and most eaaily curable stage, are sponsored by tuberculosis aasociations from Christmas Seal funds

Last Canadian Army Outfit Leave Europe

BRUSSELS.—The last Canadian army outfit in continental Europe officially closed its offices here and have started for home—six years and 11 months after the first Canadian contingent arrived in the United Kingdom.

This final element of an army which deployed two corps in the European campaigns was formally called "Canadian Section, Headquarters British Army of the Rhine, Northwest Europe," and was under command of Lt.-Col. Ross Heuchan of Hamilton, Ont. The section comprised only 15 officers and 40 other ranks.

Since last June 1 when Canadian Army Occupation Force completed its withdrawal from northwest Germany, this section commanded and administered miscellaneous small Canadian units which remained behind to clean up the army's responsibilities on the continent.

It had three main tasks:

1. The eight Canadian cemeteries in France, Belgium and the Netherlands had to be completed. This now has been done by No. 3 Cemetery Construction unit of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

2. A discipline unit and a section of provost were responsible for rounding up Canadian army deserters in northwest Europe and handling their courts-martial.

Forty-four deserters have not been found. Some of them probably are dead or hsve found their way back to Canada, but the list is being turned over to the British army which will continue the hunt.

3. The section was responsible for operation of the Canadian wives bureau in the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

The bureau has practically finished its job with about 50 women and children left in Belgium and 150 to 200 in Holland. Their movement will be undertaken by the Canadian government's immigration branch.

Between 2,000 and 2,500 wives, children, dependents and fiancees have gone to Canada from the continent through the wives bureau this year.

HOUSING MATERIALS

Distribution Throughout Canada Is Speeding Up

OTTAWA.—Government agency facilitation of equitable distribution of building materials throughout Canada is progressing with increasing speed, according to representatives of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the co-ordinator of building supplies, the timber controller and the department of reconstruction who met together in Ottawa.

Re-adjustment of price ceilings is now taking place throughout the whole level of building materials, both for henvy construction and millwork and trim. The greatest shortages in the latter have been on the prairies and in Ontario.

But, according to the building material co-ordinators, the situation is improving at an increasing tempo throughout the whole country. The greatest difficulties are two: Equitable distribution across Canada and maintaining a balance among all house building materials.

The bathtub ahortage, one of the greatest bottlenecks, is showing great improvement. One firm on the Pacific coaat is now importing in large quantity tha pressed steel ahapes for bathtubs from the U.S. and enameiling them in Canada. In the meantima, one big eastern bathtub manufacturing firm in Canada is vastly expanding its plant.

SHORTAGE OF FEED

Canadian Food Being Shipped To Alaska

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister MacKinnon aanounced that shipmeats of Canadian food already have started to move to Alaska, which appealed to Canada to help meet a shortage created by the United States marine strike.

He announced that Cnnadian eggs, poultry, fresh fruit and vegetables have been sent to Alaska and added that arrangements were completed for the immediate shipment from Edmonton of 17½ tons of beef.

Arrsngements also have heen made with the Canadian Wheat board for the release of flour.

Mr. MacKinnon said negotiations were completed with the United States department of agriculture for the meat shipments and it was ascertained that 35 tons of beef would be required to satisfy the immediate demsnd.

"Of this amount," he added, "arrangement was made the same night for the shipment of 17½ tons from Edmonton, the remainder to go forward as soon as the importers have been designated by the Alaskan authorities."

The minister said the seriousness of Alsska's food situation was made known by telegraph to Canada by the delegate to congress from Alaska and the chambers of commerce in Fairbanks, Alaska, and Prince Rupert, B.C., early this month.

An immediate decision was reached to permit the export of eggs, poultry, fresh fruit and vegetablea.

"Normally," said Mr. MacKinnon, "only small shipments of foodstuffs are made from western Canada to this area, but in this case of emergency Canada was glad to be able to assist."

"NOT A-GRIEVIN'"—Mrs. Kate Rockwell Matson, belle of the Yukon in the "roaring nineties," passed through Vancouver recently on her way to her home in Bend, Ore. "Klondike Kate" was alone. Her 83-year-old prospector husband died in the Yukon while hunting the gold find that was to lead to their retirement. "I'm not a-grievin', no, not a-grievin'," she said. "Johnny wouldn't want me to grieve." Matson's body was found in his isolated cabin 100 miles from Dawson, near his prospecting site. Death was from natural causes.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Trappers Expect Big Crop Of Muskrat Pells In Spring

THE PAS, Man.—A bumper crop of muskrata, possibly an all-time record number of pelts, is expected to be harvested next spring by trappers in northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Estimates from the north country are that the trappers will exceed their 1946 income by more than $2,500,000 as long as the market holds up at the present price of $3 for prime pelts.

Trappers at scnttered points throughout the north report that next spring will represent the top curve in the muskrat cycle, and that indications for an exceptionally heavy crop have never been so great.

Increases in the beaver population have also been reported.

BOTH ARE SERGEANTS

B of M Reports

Maintaining the modern trend in bank statements which it initiated a year ago, the Bank of Montreal today published its annual report covering financial transactions with more than 1,000,000 customers in the form of a well illustrated and readily understandable story of 1946 operations.

The statement is simplified and clearly shows a record breaking deposit figures, strong bank reserves and an indication of the general prosperity of Canada during the year. As the president points out in his annual statement there is more behind the figures than examples of individual transactions that make up the statistics of a record year of financial operations.

In many ways this report of Canada's senior financial institution reflects conditions as they exist in Canada today. Deposits in the B of M at present writing stands at $1,736 million, the highest in its history and more than $100 million above the figure of last year. While indicating that Canadians generally are better off financially than they have been for a number of years, the same increase provides reassuring proof that the citizens of the nation are themselves wisely safeguarding against runaway inflation through their personal financing.

The B of M's complete report will be found on the inside page of this issue.

THE SHADOW OF STARVATION

The world's food supply is unequally distributed and has always been so. To predict a solution to the problem of want and starvation is to voice an optimism unsupported by history or economic fact. There is a tendency for the human population to increase faster than the food supply.

The above opinions are expressed in a pamphlet entitled "Starvation Truths, Half Truths and Untruths", written by F. A. Pearson and Lon Faulberg of Cornell University.

The authors state that the tendency for the population to outrun the food supply is moderate in the United States, more pronounced in eastern Europe and extremely important in Asia. Even in the United States the population has been increasing faster than the food supply except during the war years when favorable weather and high prices provided an unusual stimulus to food production.

The high birth rate is considered the reason that most of humanity lives close to the borderline of want. In more thinly populated North America the people have never experienced a famine, and it is difficult for them to understand that much of the world lives under the shadow of starvation.

The pamphlet states that there was considerable exaggeration of the food crisis in Europe during the past year, but says that meat, eggs and other livestock product were scarce in Europe, which caused the people there to eat more grain products. As an indication that food conditions in Europe are improving, the authors cite the tendency there to increase livestock numbers. Such a course of action does not follow unless there are sufficient grain supplies.

According to the writers nothing much can be done about the situation in Asia. Starvation and disease keep the population in line with the food supply.

Socrates High Award given to B of M

First Canadian bank to gain the distinction, the Bank of Montreal has won the Socrates High Award of the year for its advertising during the past twelve months.

The award is made by "Bank Advlows", a New York monthly publication of financial advertising covering banks and trust companies throughout North America, which number more than 15,000. During the year, several of the B of M's advertisements won Socrates' monthly awards as "The Best Ad of the Month" while others received 'honorable mention", resulting in the highest annual score among the banks on both sides of the border.

"Bank Ad-views" bases its awards on reviews of daily papers of every metropolitan centres as well as several hundred smaller cities. In addition, the publication keeps in touch with leading bank and advertising men throughout the United States and Canada. A board of twelve advertising executives makes the final decision on winners.

In paying tribute to the B of M, and to its Manager of Public Relations, Munro Brown, "Bank Ad-views commented that, "The Bank of Montreal has achieved a lasting scheme of forceful advertising. . The Bank of Montreal has pointed the way. Its accomplishment deserves, at the very least the careful study and consideration of similar institutions."

RENEW DEMANDS FOR MORE ROAD OUTLAYS

Renewed demands for larger outlays by the provincial government for highway construction are expected to be made when the Alberta Motor Association holds its annual meeting in Edmonton Dec. 7.

The A.M.A. has taken the stand that all motor funds should be spent on highway construction and maintenance, as is done in many of the states south of the border. In fact, some states specify that it is illegal to divert motor funds to other than highway purposes.

While the province has increased its expenditures on roads this year, it has not yet gone the whole way in the opinion of the A.M.A.

A recent financial report issued by the province shows that in the six months ended Sept. 30, the road expenditures amounted to $2,034,000. This was an increase of $1,330,000 over the similar period of last year. This however still falls far short of the revenue which the province obtained from motor licenses and gasoline tax.

Does Agricultural Research Pay?

In no field of scientific effort has there been in recent years a greater or a more rapid advance than in Agricultural Research. In none, however, has progress been so grudgingly acknowledged or its commercial value so short-sightedly under-rated.

The farmers of Western Canada have already gained immense financial benefits from agricultural research. Take, for instance, the development of rust resistant wheats. It has been estimated that, during the 6-year period 1938-1943, the growing of wheat varieties resistant to stem rust (Thatcher, Renown, Apex and Regent) increased the average annual farm income in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan alone by $27,240,000.

Similar financial results, even if less pronounced, have resulted from research work in relation to the rehabilitation of drought areas, the control of soil erosion, weeds, field crop insects, and the development of disease resistant varieties of oats, barley, flax, and other field crops. It is difficult to exaggerate the economic value of such research.

Government stabilization and control of farm prices by long term trade agreements may produce, at least temporarily, a measure of security for the prairie farmer. But the results of agricultural research, wisely applied, will prove more permanently effective both in increasing the volume and improving the quality of the products of our prairie soils, and in reducing, without regional injustices, the cost of their production, transport, and distribution. Agricultural research is planned farm security.

If Canada is to maintain a high export level of farm products in the competitive markets of the post-war world, she must recognize the economic value of agricultural research. Does agricultural research pay? The answer is definitely in the affirmative.

THEN EVERYTHING STOPPED

By CAROL ELY HARPER

WELL, it came out all right—but I tell you, I had to stay awake the rest of the night to keep Nels from getting shot.

I started it. I don't know why, but I'm always starting things.

Chubby doesn't like it. Chubby's my husband. I call him that because he's chubby.

Like that time I went up to the hotel room with Bennie. Bennie is an old schoolmate of mine. I just went up to look at his fishing tackle. Of course I didn't know Chubby was out on the sidewalk looking in and saw me step in the elevator with Bennie. If I'd known Chubby was there I'd have waited for him, of course. Chubby about brained him—

But when the burglar—and Chubby was gone—well—I don't think there was any excuse for Chubby getting so mad over that.

It was like this. We were on the wheat ranch that winter—Chubby thought maybe he could make it pay if he worked it himself—that was before he found out he couldn't and gave up and went back to town—to the hardware store—and the burglar had been breaking into ranches for miles around, robbing off and on the past six months. I was sure our turn was going to come next and I was terribly nervous.

I begged Chubby not to go to the city that night, but he got mad and sore. "Now look here," he said. "You know I've got to go in and get that tractor and drive it out early in the mornin'. And you can't go because you'd just be in the way! This is business!"

"But I'll be all alone!" I wept.

"But you won't be all alone—" he was quite irritated. "Nels was our hired man. "But he sleeps out in the bunkhouse!" I wailed.

"That's near enough!" Chubby barked, not a bit sympathetic. "Now look. I'll leave you the rifle. You sleep with it. If you hear anything, shoot twice. Nels will hear and come on the jump, won't you, Nels?"

"Sure!" said Nels affably, looking up from the tail end of his supper. "Sure! I'll take care of her Chub. You go on into town and don't worry! I'll take care of her!"

So Chub went. He took the automatic with him, in case he should meet with a road holdup. That burglar was sure terrorizin' the country side mighty bad.

Well, when the dishes were washed and the chores done and Nels gone, I went upstairs and I got ready for bed. I put on my long white flannel nightgown. And then I took the rifle right under the sheets and cuddled it. And, believe me, my hand was shakin', but I kept it right on the trigger!

"Now come on, have some guts, Mary!" I told myself. "Cheer up, Mary, old girl!" I laid there in the dark, and I tried to shut out all thoughts except havin' some guts. Right through my eyelids I could see the room was full of crawling shapes, I mean, it looked like it was full of crawling shapes, I was so scared.

Then something made a sound. I don't know what it was, but there was a slitherin' sound, just outside my window. I felt like an earthquake quakin', and my finger come down on the trigger twice. The holes are still in the head board of our bed.

In two shakes of a lamb's tail Nels was there. He was wild eyed and dangerous looking in his night shirt. His gun in his hand, he reconnoitered over the house. He came back.

"There ain't nobody in the house!" he said. "And there ain't nothin' outside. I looked good."

I was still shaking. "All right," I said. "But you're not goin' back to that bunkhouse! You sleep on the couch downstairs!" I went back to bed, with the rifle, again. Nels was sleepin' with his gun, in the dinin' room. His automatic went off awful easy, I remembered, with satisfaction.

All the doors were locked. And I had locked all the windows except the one in the living room that won't lock any more. That window is under my upstairs bedroom window.

It must have been about two hours later when I heard somethin' gettin' in that livin' room window. There wasn't any doubt about it this time—somebody was crawlin' through that unlocked window!"

I was too genuinely scared this time to make a sound. I tried to scream to Nels but my voice was stuck in my throat. I laid there, vocally paralyzed, and shook. Then I heard Nels gettin' up off the couch in the dinin' room, that our upstairs staircase opens onto. I got up courage enough then to slip out of bed, with my rifle.

Somehow I got out on the landing. I had some notion, I think, of helpin' Nels if the burglar took him from behind. Anyway, I was ready to defend myself if the burglar brained Nels and tried to pull anything on me.

I listened. No lights showed downstairs. The burglar didn't even have a flashlight on! Then I heard steps. The steps went, soft, stealthy, from one room to another. Then I heard other steps, followin' the first steps! One man followin' another! It was terrible! I tried to get up my nerve—I just had to help Nels!

Down below the steps—steps went on—around the rooms—slinky—one man stalkin' the other! All this time I was feelin' for the light switch on the landing, but my fingers were so stiff I couldn't find it. Then I found it. Standin' there in my flannel nightgown I switched on the downstairs lights.

Well, what I saw made me faint, so then everything stopped—or I don't know what might have happened! Chubby almost divorced me for it, but I finally got it explained.

No wonder I fainted! When the lights went on, there at the foot of the stairs stood Nels and Chubby—their pistols pointed at each other.

"I thought so!" said Chubby, looking at Nels.

I don't understand why Chubby gets so jealous.

BRITISH SOLDIERS NOT TAKING TO NEW UNIFORMS

LONDON.—Tommy Atkins' new blue dress uniform got a blue reception at its first showing in Albert Hall recently.

Watching a preview of young British soldiers in the new blue tunics, blue trousers, with wide red stripe, and blue beret, the veterans of khaki days thought the new "walking out dress" was not so smart .

An ex-Regimental Sergeant Major said: "I think it could do with a bit of livening up." An ex-officer declared: "Nothing really to attract young men to the army."

But one ex-serviceman liked it, "Jolly—it's easier to keep clean," he said.

PLOWING EXPENSIVE

MCBRIDE, B.C.—Robert Sansom found his fall plowing expensive. He plowed under $1,300 when his wallet dropped from his pocket while operating a tractor. He has a wide field to search, a three acre tract of land on his 360 acre farm here.

DRUG MAY END HEART DISEASE

Penicillin Has Become Effective In Treating Endocarditis

NEW YORK.—Penicillin is effective in prevention and treating one of the most deadly heart diseases, Dr. Homer F. Swift, chairman of the American Council of Rheumatic Fever of the American Heart Association, said at the council's annual meeting.

The disease, he said, is known as sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, an infection that occurs in patients who have rheumatic heart disease. Before Penicillin, it was nearly always fatal.

At least half of the cases of this infection occur after a tooth extraction or an operation of the upper air passages, Dr. Swift said, and he urged national education for dentists and physicians, as well as the general public, in the new use for penicillin.

"If the patient receives penicillin prophylaxis prior to the extraction of a tooth, or any mouth or throat operation, the disease can be prevented," he said. "Where this is not done, and the disease develops, penicillin administered in large doses and over a long period of time can cure the majority of cases."

Bacterial endocarditis is a serious infection of the heart valves, he explained, and is caused by one of the streptococcus germs commonly known as "green strep", which is always present in the mouth and air passages. When a tooth is extracted, the bacteria enters the blood stream and grows on one of the heart valves previously damaged by rheumatic fever.

Some Short Names

Limit Of Brevity Is Not Confined To Only Two Letters

Miss Lu, Chinese author and journalist, who measures only four feet, has been described as the smallest person with the shortest name, at the Paris conference. In the latter respect, however, she is not without rivals elsewhere. A few years before the war a little Miss Ma was christened in St. Paul's Cathedral, while the United States has a family of some distinction named Eik, and Melbourne has a tradesman named Ny. Nor are such two-letter names the limit of brevity. First place in a recent New York telephone directory was held by Mr. A and there used to be a popular restaurant keeper in Paris whose name was O.—Manchester Guardian.

FARMER FINDS DEER BECAME TOO DEAR

STRAFFORDVILLE, Ont.—Deer! Deer! Deer!

On his way to form a hunting party in this Elgin County village things ran ahead of schedule for farmer Archie Dennis. While Dennis was driving to pick up his friends a deer raced across the road and collided with his car causing damage estimated at $60.

As compensation Farmer Dennis bundled the body of the animal into his auto and deposited it in a garage here while he went to notify police.

The law investigated but found no deer. The interior of the garage was wrecked and damage estimated at $250. A broken window showed how the deer, who played possum, escaped.

Mr. Dennis said he was glad it wasn't a moose.

Are Badly Needed

Many Canadians Have Discontinued Sending Food Parcels To Britain

The Montreal Star says many wartime enthusiasms are prone to fade away as soon as the fighting ceases. One of those enthusiasms is that which led thousands of Canadians to send food parcels to Britons throughout the war. Now fewer parcels are being sent. And the pity of it is that the people of the British Isles need those food parcels more than they ever did before, because the disappearance of reserves has forced a tightening of rationing.

All the theories in the world bring home no bacon unless they are put into practice—and nothing illustrates the power of continued effort so well as the fact that a dime doubled 20 times is $104,857.60.

PARENTS TAKE NOTICE

Marine Sgt. Clarence F. Henchell, 22, Seattle, asserting his Christian name was an impediment to his career, petitioned the Superior Court to change his name to "Richard". "Rightly or wrongly", his petition stated, "there is attached to the name of Clarence a connotation of ridicule, and the name is usually used in connection with, at least, vacillating characters."
